

Chartered Institute of Environmental Health (CIEH) Level 3 Award in Health and Safety in the Workplace.

Duration: Three days.

Course overview:

Health and safety involves reducing the risks of accident and ill health associated with work activities, whether they affect employees, employers, the self-employed, visitors or the public.

A supervisor has a legal and moral responsibility to look after the health and safety of employees, but needs to have the knowledge and skill to be able to do this effectively.

This training programme provides an opportunity to look more deeply into general health and safety from a supervisory perspective, and successful candidates will be able to help their organisation whatever the size or activity in improving the health and safety culture.

This course is accredited by the Chartered Institute and includes an examination following the training.

Course content:

Upon completion the delegates will have gained knowledge of:

- Understanding main concepts of health and safety.
- Promote benefits of health and safety culture.
- Clarify roles and responsibilities in health and safety.
- Provide and understanding of health and safety control and improvement strategies.

Successful completion will prepare delegates to look carefully at their own work activities and contribute to the organisations health and safety management system.
